"MAMMA, HERE COMES PAPA NOW"

INCIDENT AT GLOBE FUNERAL THAT BRINGS TEARS FROM ALL BEHOLDERS.

GLOBE, July 30.—"Mamma, here comes Papa now!"

This happy remark of a fair-haired little girl the daughter of the late John Bramham, brought tears to the eyes of spectators yesterday as the remains of the little child's father were carried from the undertaking parlor to the hearse preparatory to their last journey to their resting place in the city cemetery.

Little did she realize what the sad ceremony meant, why there was a hush over the little company that had gathered to pay the last respects to the memory of the dead father, or why her mother, with the fountain of tears already run dry sobbed out a tearless supplication that the lost one might be restored.

But the onlookers knew they realized what was happening, they knew something of the financial condition of the mother, and while women wept openly stout-hearted men turned away in a vain attempt to hide their emotions.

The fair-haired little child will never see her father again hear his voice or feel his caress upon her brow. Fate has removed him to another sphere. A widow and nine children survive him.

The family is really in a straitened circumstances. Without funds with a family of nine children of which the eldest is but fourteen years of age, the prospective mother of another child Mrs. Bramham must fight alone the battle for a livelihood.

Her husband belonged to neither union nor fraternal order, and when an accident at Clifton cost him his life, he left no means by which his family might be supported.

Is it any wonder that, knowing the family's condition, women wept openly and stout-hearted men turned away in a vain attempt to hide their emotions when the childish voice flared out, "Mamma, here comes Papa now?"

MINER IS KILLED AT WHITE CLOUD

ANOTHER FATALLY HURT BY CROSS HEAD FALLING IN MAIN SHAFT.

PRESCOTT, July 30.—A telephone message was received yesterday afternoon from the White Cloud mine, stating that Edward Casper was killed and Joe Peruna seriously if not fatally injured. Full details of the accident were not learned. It happened in the shaft. It is believed that the cable broke and that the crosshead fell to the bottom, striking Casper on the head and killing him instantly.

Justice of the peace McLane and Sheriff Smith left this morning for White Cloud, where a coroner's jury will be summoned and an inquest held today. Justice of the Peace Wren of Constellation the nearest ex-officio coroner to the White Cloud mine, is slightly indisposed and unable to conduct the inquest.

A casket for the remains of the dead miner was forwarded to the mine by the H. M. Maus Co. undertakers. Interment will be in the Wickenburg cemetery.

The dead miner resided in this country several years. He was favorably known in many mining camps. He was formerly in the employ of the Hot Springs Mining company, and only entered the service of the White Cloud Mines company two weeks before he met his death in the bottom of the main shaft 400 feet down.

He was a native of Minnesota and 37 years old. He is said to have relatives residing in that state but their address was not learned last night.

Joe Peruna, the injured man is also well known throughout the country, having resided here many years. He was struck by the falling crosshead on the arms and sides. One of his arms is broken and it is feared that he is seriously injured internally. He will be taken to Wickenburg for surgical attention.

Represents $1000 a mile.

The head office of the road will be in Tucson and a branch office may be established in New York or elsewhere. It has been announced that the contract for the building of the road has already been let to contractors in New Jersey. The line will open rich mineral fields along its entire route and give it is understood, the Santa Fe an outlet to tidewater.
